Frequently Asked Questions on first registration of minor amateur players who are not Irish nationals

Who does it apply to?

Any amateur player, who has not yet reached their 18th birthday, who is not an Irish national, who has not been previously registered with any football club in Ireland or any other country and who wishes to register with an amateur club affiliated to the Football Association of Ireland.

What happens if a club want to register such a player?

Having ascertained that the player is not yet 18 years of age, is not an Irish national and has not been previously registered with a club anywhere in the world, the club must ask the player to produce the following documentary evidence.

- Proof of identity and nationality for player
- Proof of identity and nationality for player's parents
- Proof of Player's birth date (birth certificate or other sanctioned proof)
- Parental authorisation

When a club has all the documentation what do they do?

The club secretary must apply in writing to their League stating that they are seeking carry out the first registration of a non-Irish national. The documentary evidence required should be attached in PDF format to the correspondence.

What happens then?

Upon receiving the application the League will review the documentation and if satisfied that everything is in order they will authorise the registration. They will then forward the name of the player, his date of birth and his club to the FAI for submission to FIFA.

If the player leaves the club what should they do?

If a player decides to transfer to another club, in Ireland or abroad, or at the end of a season decides to register for a new club in Ireland, the League must notify the FAI that the player has transferred or registered with another club. The FAI will then convey this information to FIFA.

Why do FIFA need to know?

The FAI is required to report to FIFA every six months which players it has registered on the basis of this exemption and for which club. The FAI is also obliged to inform FIFA every six months of any subsequent domestic and/of international transfers of these players. This is the result of an exemption obtained by the FAI as under the existing regulations the club would have had to seek permission from FIFA's Player Status Committee to register the player and this would have taken up to seven weeks to process.
